MARCH

CONFERENCE - Conference - C O N F E R E N C E! is THE WORD this month - the event most important in the O.C.A. year. Count down has begun!

1980 Conference has something for everyone - a browse through the programme proves it is true. Carolea Butters and her Committee of twenty-four souls, stalwart all, are ready. They are set to let it happen.

Of interest to the membership, particularly those who responded to the mail vote on the Constitution of the Ontario Camping Association Draft No. 3 presented by Jocelyn Palm, Chairman Past Presidents Council and approved by the Board unanimously, January 19, 1980.

CAMPS: 100 returns YES 97 NO 3 INDIVIDUALS: 111 returns YES 105 NO 6

"A new Constitution is ratified by a two-thirds majority of all the general members who respond to the opportunity to vote by mail".

February 25, 1980 the above results ratify the Constitution.

ORIENTEERING ONTARIO

Orienteering is the lastest technique of training youngsters and adults the skill of navigation in the woods by turning the learning process into a challenging sport. A number of camps have now got their own orienteering maps produced by professional orienteering mappers, and permanent control markers.

One of the problems most camps face is finding qualified instructors to teach the program and setting the courses properly.

Orienteering Ontario would like to offer their assistance to camps interested in setting up an orienteering program and finding qualified instructors. They are located at

Ontario Sports Administrative Centre at 160 Vanderhoof Ave., Toronto (opposite to Inn on the Park at Eglinton Ave. East & Leslie Street)

Please feel free to drop in and talk to Mr. Henry Lam their Executive Director.

CHARLES E. HENDRY, M.A., LL.D.

A TRIBUTE

An internationally-known member of the Camping Movement in Canada for many years died suddenly as he was about to leave Toronto to deliver an important address in Geneva, Switzerland. "Chick" Hendry worked since student days with the late Taylor Statten, through the Y.M.C.A. in many parts of Canada, the Red Cross Camp Leadership Training Courses for the University of Toronto, and later as co-ordinator of Research for the American Jewish Congress, as well as National Research Director of the Boy Scouts of America. This, after earning his academic degrees at McMaster, Columbia, New York and Chicago Universities.

He assisted in the founding of Camp Ahmek, served in such institutions as Columbia University, George Williams College (Chicago), was the first United Nations Fellow appointed from Canada, and became professor and director of the School of Social Work at the University of Toronto.

Ontario Camping Association members knew him well through talks lectures and sessions at many Conferences through the years, and appreciated "Chick" Hendry as a man who worked hard for social justice and the causes in which he believed.

In another phase of camping, he will be remembered for reports of his visits with Wallace Forgie at Camp Tonekela outside Madras, India, a camp built through donations from campers across Canada. Funds were raised every summer to further the work of Canadian and native doctors and nurses at this Canadian Convalescent Children's haven, where health and strength were restored to so many under privileged Madras children.

His enthusiasm and dedication were very evident in his term of office as a member of the national Council of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and proved again the great contribution he made towards improving relations among people in the world.

J. HARRY EBBS

REPORT FROM THE ENVIRONMENTAL CONCERNS COMMITTEE

In the November OCAsional News we reported on the large seminar on Acid Rain held in Toronto on November 1, 2 and 3, 1979. We'd like, now, to tell you about one of the many ways in which Acid Rain can affect your camp and its programs.

One of the first things that happens when a lake becomes more acidic is that the fish population drops off rather drastically and the water starts to look clearer. These two facts are related. First let's look at the fish side of it. Fish live on insects, smaller fish, frogs and tadpoles, and smaller fish live on anything smaller that moves, down to little things we can't see with the naked eye. Now if higher acidity kills the micro-organisms at the low end of the food chain, then the tadpoles and grubs which feed on them starve - as do the very small fish, and so on up the line. In fact the small fish may also die as a consequence of not being able to survive in an acidic environment. Whatever the cause we end up with just the large fish who can survive just so long on very reduced rations - then they're gone too. As for the clearer water - well - if there are no small micro-organisms, and no slightly larger bits and pieces that prey on them and so on up the scale then there'll be nothing much in the water - therefore it's clearer!

Now, practically every camp has a nature program a part of which involves a study of things that exist in the water: bugs, tadpoles, minnows, frogs . . . What do you do if your lake is so acidic that there aren't any of these? What do you do if you can't encourage some of your campers to quietly inch out to the edge of your dock and peer over at the fish who congregate in its shelter? How do you go about teaching your campers the joys of fishing - or of watching a tadpole develop - if there aren't any? It'll restrict your nature programs, won't it? Think about it - there's that whole big lake with beautiful clear water - and not a darned thing to look at in it!

So what can you do about it?

You can sound off and you can write letters to your local MLA and MP, to Premier Davis and to the Minister of the Environment telling them of your concern and demanding that they, in concert with their counterparts on the other side of the border, do something - and soon! Remind them that, in addition to your immediate concerns, no fish in a lake means a drop off in the number of tourists who'll come to your area and that this'll affect the local economy. Also encourage your friends to write.

Don't get into the form letter caper if you can help it. At the Acid Rain Conference we learned that politicians tend to discount that form of petition and give more weight to a personal letter on the grounds that anyone who'll go to the trouble of writing about a problem is serious.

Good Luck!

JACK ZOUBIE

OPEN HOUSE

About thirty people attended the "Open House" on February 13, 1980 in the home of June and Cliff Labbett to hear Dr. John R. Carlisle M.D., LL.B., E.C.Am.

Barry Lowes introduced Dr. John and talked of his growing through the ranks as camper, counsellor and medical staff which gave him the special perspective to talk authoritatively on the topic of "First Aid in Camping on and off the site. How are we preparing our staff for emergency situations".

Dr. John touched on many safety policies, demonstrated new equipment and provided those present with many new ideas and many pauses for thought. No doubt many camp safety procedures will be re-evaluated and re-formulated.

All concurred with our "Prez", Barbara Gilchrist when she expressed on behalf of the audience and presented Dr. John with a small token of appreciation from the O.C.A. Education Committee.

Coffee, muffins, cake and other goodies were served afterwards, (re) acquaintances were made and profound discussion took place.

Thanks go to the Labbetts for making their home available and to Phil Lowes, the guiding force behind the idea and who with the other committee members organized this successful meeting. We'll do it again!

ARCHIVES NEWS

In November, 1979, a dinner was given in honour of Adele and Harry Ebbs, organized by Camp Wapomeo alumnae, the proceeds from which established the Ebbs Camping Archives Fund at Trent University.

Adele was President of O.C.A. in 1967 and as a Centenary project initiated the collecting of camping archives through a committee, first chaired by Dr. Mary Northway, followed by Margaret Govan. Both the Canadian and Ontario Camping archives have been housed at Trent University, Peterborough.

On January 31st, 1980, at a meeting of "The Friends of Bata Library", Dr. and Mrs. Ebbs spoke about children's camps and our archives. Great interest was shown in the presentation, attended by the Board of Governors, President Donald Theall, Professor Elwood Jones (Chairman), Kenneth W. Johnson, (Trent Archivist) and a number of interested persons. Dr. Bruno Morawetz, (Camp Ponacka) introduced the speakers.

It is evident that Canadian Camping Archives are held in high esteem and is expected to grow in importance. It is hoped that all Canadian Camps will collect valuable documents and pictures for preservation and safe-keeping to be available to present and future historians. Already many graduate and undergraduate students and other interested persons use the collection for research and professional papers.

Archives News cont'd.

A donation to support the continuing work on our archives would indicate our appreciation for all that Trent has been doing for us during the past ten years. You and/or your camp would be listed as "A Friend of Trent Library Camping Archives Fund" (Income Tax receipt provided). If visiting the Peterborough area, or recruiting staff, visit the Archives.

A POEM FOR YOUR FILES

The following poem (from the Michigan Section of the American Camping Association) is the first place winner of an Essay Contest for their International Year of the Child. Katie Ellis, age 10, Camp Leelanau for Girls, gives it the title -

WHAT CAMP MEANS TO ME

What a special adventure to come to camp each year, And I'm always so excited when the time is drawing near. Waking with the bugle at the early crack of dawn And outside with the dewdrops you can see a little fawn. Swimming in Lake Michigan or swimming in the river Going up your back you always find a little shiver. Sometimes late at night when you can hardly see I'd like to take a walk and have God come walk with me. While laying in my bunk taking a rest I think of which activity I like the best. In writing this poem I just wanted you to see How much camp means to me.
